

Code of conduct - The Last Chance

- Stay healthy. Always wear a mask during team meetings to avoid the corona virus.
- Our mission is to complete successful projects. Here, rather than simply the goal of grades, the goal is to realize the meaning of this class while successfully completing the project.
- Follow the group leader's instructions faithfully for the success of the project. If a member has something to announce, it is notified through the leader.
- Share email for group members to communicate.
- Keep on time commitments for successful projects.
- If it is difficult to schedule a time, try to facilitate communication among team members so that the leader can adjust the time again.
- If one team member is lacking, another team member helps the project progress together.
- If there is something you do not know about the contents of the project, let the team members know at any time.
- As with Python code, know-how on source code or site construction is shared among team members and ultimately builds data in a form that can be used by all users in an easy-to-understand data format.
- At the end of a team meeting, always thank each other for hard work.
- If you have any questions during the team meeting, kindly answer them
- If there is a new idea, share it immediately.
- Respect and trust each other with team members to complete the final project.
- Do your best to achieve the goal and mission of receiving high grades together with all members.
- Lastly, even when the project is finished, the team members can keep in touch and study together.

As a team member I will maintain this rule with my best regards and try,
